

New Formulation for MGL 188

Black shades are particularly important for printing on glass since they are indispensable for many purposes, e. g. for borders, control panels, or as blocking layers.

For this reason, based on new findings resulting from our tests, we have decided to optimize the formulation of MGL 188.

The new formulation is characterized by higher density values, outperforming even with thin ink deposits.

Other properties do not change with the new formulation.
